

Intro

Hello everyone my name is Grace Dickhaut and welcome back to my podcast. In today's podcast we will be listening to 5 of my greatest podcasts. We will listen in chronological order to my first ever interview podcast, my first audio playground, my second audio playground, my outside walking tour soundscape, and my family interview with my father.

Interview 1

First off we have my first ever interview with one of my peers. These are my favorite kinds of podcasts so that is why I wanted to highlight all three of them. In this episode you can tell there are a couple things wrong with it. The first thing that I want to point out is that we are in a noisy environment so there are a lot of voices behind us and there are a lot of cuts. So, let's give it a listen.

Audio Playground 1

Second, we have my first ever audio playground. The criteria asked for a story and I totally forgot to have a storyline. So if I were to go back in time I would have completely changed this podcast. But it was definitely a learning experience to look more in depth when it comes to the rubric.

Audio Playground 2

Then we have my second audio playground. This one is a tour around my house. I tried my best to make it as intriguing as possible with all of the sound effects. All of the sound effects are the reason I love this one and also leads me to why I chose it.

Sound scape

I chose this next one because there is a lot of comedic effect to it and it is very interactive. When it was presented to the class everyone was laughing with me and told me it was very interesting to listen to.

Interview 2

My last and final podcast that will be featured is going to be my podcast with my father Brian Dickhaut. I love this episode because I was able to learn a lot about my dad and his job. I also think that the content that I had was very interesting and I relistened to it myself.

Outro

And that will wrap up this season of my podcasts. I would like to thank everyone watching as I had so much fun with putting these episodes together. I would also like to thank freesounds for some of the sound effects that you have heard and also garageband that I used for all of my editing! Thank you!