To earn full credit, the story must be told in the "Inverted Pyramid" style, contain 3 quotes, contain all parts of the anatomy of a gamer, be emailed to be 24 hours BEFORE your workshop and revised no more than 48 hours AFTER your workshop.

Here is the Inverted Pyramid from p. 90 of our reader, Sports Journalism:

Note on Background on Teams, Previous Meetings, and Next Contest: Aim to include at least 1 of those components at the end of your gamer.

Scoring for your Revised Gamer project:

FORMAT:

Gamer written in Inverted Pyramid, containing anatomical parts of a Gamer (at least 10 components, in the proper order), and separated by a space for each paragraph:

_____10 points possible for each component

QUALITY OF WRITING:

Clean copy (spelling, grammar, AP conventions [2]), exciting and accurate details(1), engaging quotes(1), written in past tense(1).

_____5 points total

TIMLINESS:

Emailed to Jesse on-time as a Word or Google doc 24 before your workshop.

_____2 points

Revised story emailed to Jesse as a Word or Google doc PLUS URL to ePortfolio page no more than 48 hours after workshop

_____1 points

ePORTFOLIO COMPONENTS:

- Create a Gamer page on your ePortfolio (.25)

- Label each section: Draft 1, Draft 2, Reflection (.25)

- Include draft 1 (.25)

- Include revised draft after workshop (.25)

- Write a reflection: In 200-300 words, reflect on your overall experience of this project. What went well, where could you have improved, what surprised you about the work of a sports reporter? (1)

Late drafts (draft 1 or revised) will be reduced by a letter grade for each day. Any questions, reach out ASAP.

Ask me about possible bonus points.
