

In-class Writing Prompt # 1

In roughly 3-4 paragraphs, write about a meaningful moment in your life that helped shape your values.

Narrate this meaningful moment with details that help us access your experience and explain to the reader WHY this moment was so meaningful.

Example: I'll tell you about an experience in my life back in 3rd grade, dealing with a bully who was abusing animals.

- Attended in-class writing session, produced a 3-4 paragraph draft _____/2
- While in class, attempted to respond in earnest to answer the prompt _____/1
- Returned the next class with a PRINTED version typed up exactly* as written _____/1
- In addition to typed version, a 150-250 word REFLECTION will accompany the typed version responding to the following question: As you reengage with your in-class writing draft, what might do to improve the work—adding details, editing points, moving ideas around, etc.? Be specific on what exactly you'd do to revise the piece.
- Please label the reflection. _____/1

GRADE: _____/5

Please pay close attention to the process for this assignment, and note that the design of this assignment is an approach to confront the challenges of assigning writing projects in the age of AI.

1. Write your 3 paragraphs by hand in class.
2. Take a photograph of your 3-4 paragraphs and send it to me before you leave class.
3. Turn your 3-4 paragraphs assignment into me before you go.
4. Use the photo you took (and sent me) to type up your in-class assignment.
5. Return to class next time with a TYPED version AND your reflection.

Grace period: Forget your printed work (#5 above)? If it makes it to my mailbox in Marcil Hall before the end of my last class (4:50 p.m.) the day it's due, I'll consider it on-time.

Please: make minor corrections for spelling and grammar only. Any material alterations of the content (big or small) will result in a zero on the project.
